A DROUGHT-RESISTING WHEAT

PRICE CHANGES LIMITS 5 CENTS

CALGARY WINS OUT; PAYS GOLD

WINNIPEG, Ont.—Passengers on a street car here were amazed during the week-end when a woman boarded the car leading a small child wearing a paper bag over his head and face. Although holes had been cut in the bag to enable the child to see and breathe he persisted in attempting to tear the bag but was thwarted each time by his mother.

Just as the two were about to alight from the car near a hospital the child succeeded in his efforts, tearing the bag and revealing a graniteware headband which clamped tightly to his head.

The passengers howled with laughter, but the woman turned to them angrily and said: "This is no laughing matter, it's serious."

WINNIPEG—Six years' intensive study last night was bringing success in the search for a drought-resisting wheat with all the qualities of the famous Marquis and Rexford strains.

"Drought-resisting wheat, including all the desirable agronomical qualities, is being achieved in a few years more will be required before it is ready to be placed at the disposal of the growers," declared Dr. G. R. Amond, youthful member of the department of field crops, University of Alberta.

WINNIPEG—A maximum daily price fluctuation of five cents a bushel was fixed on wheat futures by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today by order of the exchange council.

The ruling does not apply to wheat futures which were peaked November 1st, December at 75 cents; May at 80 cents and July at 81 1/4 cents a bushel.

Long-drawn-out United States exchange drama has come to an end in Calgary. On Thursday last a United States trust company accepted payment for the national city of California in gold. Mayor Davidson declared that in refusing to pay U. S. exchange on its bonds and debentures at the first of 1933 the city avoided a loss of about $350,000.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the United Church, Carbon, of Tuesday, November 13th, by the Rev. Wm. McNeil, when Mrs. Mary Ann Gibson and Mr. Gustav Burger, both of the Carbon district, were united in marriage.

MISS MARGARET CHALMERS

Speaking before fair crowd in the Farmers' Exchange hall, Carbon, last Wednesday night, Messrs. Churchill, Watson and Hyde, expressed their views from a Liberal standpoint on the aims and ideals of the party.

J.J. Freeman, chairman in the absence of Mr. Wright, introduced the first speaker, Mr. Churchill, who outlined the banking practice and the Liberal party's plan for important changes. Mr. Churchill stated that the Liberal party favored the Central Bank but it should be owned and operated by the people of Canada, or Dominion, and not by a few shareholders, as at present. The Liberal's aim, he said, was the plan of the Dominion taking over the issuance of currency and limiting the banks to issuing only the amount of currency backed by Dominion notes held by them.

Mr. R. Watson was the next speaker and his subject was tariffs, the well-known Liberal party's main plank in its platform. Mr. Watson pointed out that low tariffs were necessary for a trading country such as Canada, and if we wanted to retain and recoup our position among the trading nations of the world we would have to lower our tariff walls. He explained that lower tariffs was the policy of the Liberals.

P.J. Hyde, the last speaker, spoke briefly and stated that since he had been requested to allow his name to be before the nominating convention on Nov. 15th, he did not want to be accused of soliciting delegate votes. Mr. Hyde is a former federal member of parliament.

The talented young eloquentist who will be in Carbon on November 23rd, to give a recital at the Old Timers' banquet, Miss Chalmers, is a pupil of Miss Theresa M. Siegel, of Calgary.

TO VOTE ON PROPOSED ALBERTA POULTRY MARKETING SCHEME

Every poultry producer with a flock of 25 birds or more will be given an opportunity to vote for or against the proposed Alberta Poultry Marketing Scheme and the application of that scheme in the province will depend entirely upon such vote, a statement issued by the Alberta Poultry Marketing Board emphasizes.

Poultry producers are urged by the Board to fully acquaint themselves with the details of the proposed scheme before making their personal decision. It is pointed out that the petitions condemning the scheme at present being circulated are mainly from sources whose interests are not identical with those of the producer and the members of the Board are extremely anxious that producers fully satisfy themselves concerning both sides of the question before reaching a decision.

Temporary headquarters of the poultry marketing board have been opened at 606 Northern Investment Building, Edmonton. Copies of the marketing plan may be obtained from this office.

Winston Churchill, R. Watson and P. L. Hyde Address Gathering

Following the meeting the Liberals for the political divisions of Carbon, Watson and McDonald gathered and elected delegates to the nominating convention, to be held in Calgary, today, November 15th, to elect a candidate to contest the Bow River constituency.

EDITOR MORALIZES

A Minnesota editor moralizes thus: "If we could all switch businesses in the way around just for one week, we'd be a lot more sympathetic of the other fellow's problem and know a lot more than we do at present about the cause of his shortcomings and of his apparent failures. Let the banker sell the grocer the milk teeth, the dentist run a garage, the garage man edit the paper, the editor run the bank—for just six little week days and we'd all have our eyes so wide open to what the others are up against that we would never have courage to criticize, nor would we be unmerciful again. Then if the whole's caseload of us were to move on various farms and operate them for another six days each, we'd all be so wise and understanding that the peace and harmony prevailing would make this little old community just about the best place in the world to live. If it can't be done, of course, but we could take the thought to ourselves that we don't know anything about the other man's job and concede that for all we know he is handling it in good shape."

SOME OF THE WORDS THAT MEAN A CROWD

Do you know how many words in this good old English language of ours mean crowds? Well, here are a few of them:

A crowd of ships is termed a fleet; a fleet of sheep is called a flock; a flock of girls is a berry; a berry of girls is called a pack; a pack of thieves is called a gang; a mass of angels is termed a host; a host of porpoises is termed a shoal; a shoal of porpoises is termed a herd; a herd of children is called a troop; a troop of stars is called a galaxy; a galaxy of ruffians is called a horde; a horde of robbers is termed a band; a band of oxen is called a drove; a drove of loonies is termed a mob; a mob of whalers is termed a school; a school of worshippers is called a congregation; a congregation of engineers is termed a corps; a corps of robbers is called a band; a band of bees is termed a swarm and a swarm of people is called a crowd.

BLAMES BENNETT FOR FAILURE OF B.C. WORK PLANS

VANCOUVER—"Ottawa can wait," we would and can't sum up the situation," declared Attorney-General Gordon Bennett of British Columbia, recently, laying at the door of the federal government the blame for the inability of the provincial government to carry out its plans for "work and wages."

"The program of the Liberal party, which it hoped to start public works in the province and provide needed work, was predicated upon the use of national credit for a major program of public works," Mr. Bennett said.

"Work and wages" was no little objective and still is not. It is the sincere desire of the Pattullo government. We have not been able to carry out this part of our program because the prime minister will not accept as sound the Pattullo plan for financing with national credit."

OLD TIMERS TO HOLD RE-UNION IN CARBON NOVEMBER 23

The Carbon Old Timers' Association are holding their annual reunion and round-up in the Farmers' Exchange hall on Friday November 23rd.

The gathering, at last year, will start at 1 p.m. with a banquet, to be followed by a short program, under the direction of Mr. W. Poole, and the remainder of the evening will be given up to Old Time dancing, for which the famous Hill Billies old time orchestra from Calgary has been engaged.

Mr. McNaughton will be the floor manager and a wonderful time is assured for all who attend.

Miss Margaret Chalmers, the well-known eloquentist of Calgary, has been specially engaged for this occasion and this alone should be worth the price of admission, which will be $1.00, including both banquet and dance.

All old timers who have been in Alberta prior to December 31, 1909, and now living, or who have lived in the Carbon district are eligible and welcome. Also children of old timers who are 15 years of age or over.

THRESHING

There is hustle and excitement. We all are on the run. For see, yonder in the field. The straw's begin to blow.

Goah! It's a quarter to eleven. Hurry! put the "lucers" on. While I look into the oven: Where has that dish cloth gone?

Hurry up and set the table. What if our clock is slow? Why the scuffs here already. The straw's begin to blow.

Then at last the dinner's over. And they were a hungry bunch. But pitchin' bundles makes them ready for three o'clock for lunch.

Then when the supper is over. Come the time that I like best. For while I'm washing dishes They talk and smoke and rest.

And the boys from foreign countries Tell of places they have been. And they try in "broken English" To tell us what they've seen.

First a native of Italy Tells how they work by hand; T'hen a blonde son of the north land Talks of home and Fjords and strand.

There's a sailor that's sailed the seas. Out of a job and broke. So now he's pitching bundles To earn his bread and smoke.

Did you ever notice, however, Far away men will roam. When around the supper table Their thoughts will be of home.

Then away to bunkers they scatter, Half-past four comes all too soon. Then you wonder where the time went. For before you know it, 'tis noon.

Then when the outfit is leaving You feel you'd like to cheer. Just to think the threshing's over 'Till another year. —Marie Seel

EVERY BANK WILL CO-OPERATE

MONTREAL—Although establishment of a central bank in Canada was destined to make a sharp break in the evolution of the Canadian banking system, there need be no fear Canadian bankers would not co-operate with the Bank of Canada, Jackson Bodde, Montreal, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, stated.

"Since the Great War, Mr. Bodde stated, it had become the fashion to establish central banks and Canadians had been led to thinking a central bank would be a chief factor in bringing a return to desired prosperity. "This advocacy of the central bank idea," he declared, "resulted in the Canadian public forgetting the record of Canadian banks in the past four or five years when they withstood the shock of depression with such firmness as contrasted with the unprecedented success in banking service and stability experienced in the United States with its Federal Reserve banking system functioning under central bank principles."

RICHARD DAY PASSES AWAY; DEATH DUE TO HEART ATTACK

Report was received in town on Monday morning that Richard Day, who has been living with his brother-in-law, for a good many years, had died that morning in bed, death being due to heart failure.

Deceased had been out to a dinner party the night before and was apparently in good health on retiring, but when he failed to appear Monday morning relatives went to his room and found him in his last struggle for life and he died before the doctor arrived.

Deceased was well known in and around Carbon and has made his home with George Apley and family for a good many years, and his loss is deeply mourned.

Funeral services were held from the Catholic church on Wednesday morning and were in charge of Father Killen of Rockyford. Interment was made in the Carbon cemetery.

11. TWENTY-FIVERS' CLUB

PERFECTION in Sheet, as in some other forms of Sport, is occasionally possible. Of course, even with born shots, it is not over-night, but is largely the result of patient hard work and regular practice.

It takes different shapes. It may be 25 x 25 at a club shoot, or 100 x 100 at a tournament shoot.

Or it may be with a 410 as against a 12 gauge gun. Everything else being equal, high scores with the smaller sizes are considered better sporting performances than if a bigger gun were used. Punting is harder, loads are lighter, patterns smaller. So if a shooter makes the Twenty-Fivers' Club with a 12 or 16 gauge, he still has perfection to aim at in the 20's or 410.

In the United States, where, as we have seen, Sheet shooting is a very popular and long-established game, the number of members in the Twenty-Fivers' Club grows annually. But the long runs of 100 targets, the tournament shoots, are still a mark of achievement for the vast majority to shoot at.

The fascination, the real interest of Sheet, lies in the shooter watching his own score steadily improving. From 10 or 15 out of 25, then to 20. After a longish period of hovering around 23, 24, 22, the lucky man gets his eye and nerves suddenly to click and he pulls down a straight 25. What a memorable day that is!

But, not content with that, he puts down his 12 gauge and goes small gun. The apex of enjoyment lies in the 410. Twenty-five straight, with it, is perfection in shooting Sheet.

This is No. 11 of a series of 12 articles on Sheet Shooting. Cut it out. When all has been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportsman's sport which is rapidly becoming theogue across Canada.

New Aid in Preventing Colds
Leads to Plan for Better
Control of Colds

PLAN EASY TO FOLLOW

Years ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Chemists have developed the ideal companion to VapoRub—Vicks Vapo-rub—the new aid in preventing colds.

These two preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The healthfulness of Vicks Plan in reducing the number, duration and severity of colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians. (The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.) Here, briefly, is how Vicks Plan works.

To Help Prevent Colds

Wash yourself and children after exposure to any condition apt to be followed by a cold—such as contact with others having active colds or colds, public places, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms—under active colds, in temperature, wet or cold, or unseasonable exposures—excesses in living which lower resistance, such as over-eating, smoking, or drinking—after a hard day when you are over-tired.

Then, if you have that stuffy, sneezy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Vapo-rub at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in this way, Vicks Vapo-rub helps prevent many annoying colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, apply Vicks Vapo-rub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, VapoRub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. This combined double action through the skin and vapors—causes difficult breathing—helps break connection.

During the day—any time, use Vicks Vapo-rub every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal doses while so often useless the digestion—especially of children.

To Help Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Vicks VapoRub and VapoRub—also a folder telling how these twin aids to fever and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for better control of colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

THE TENDERFOOT

SYNOPSIS

"You're fainter now to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the owner told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur men have been systematically totting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene declined to go as what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, but owner of the Hour-glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderness outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and lawless promoter, had now returned to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubbed him, of his discovery of a rich mine and the prospect of a rich mine. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and plotting against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin, fearing the old promoter may tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Dustin swung about to face a gray little figure that stiffened at sight of him. Sam Peters had been cashier of the Seco Bank for more than thirty years. Scotch by descent and cautious by nature, only once had he ventured to extend his activities beyond Seco. He was like Kipling's muskrat that all his life tried to muster courage to run to the middle of the floor. Peters mustered that courage once . . . and Dustin caught him with a loan of five thousand dollars on his house. That loan saved Peters his bank job but it made him the bond-slave of Sam Dustin.

"Just a moment, Peters. . . ."
Dustin drew him aside. "How much money does old man Carr owe the bank? I've got to know."

"He don't owe the bank at all, Mr. Dustin. He did owe the bank but old man Peters took it up. It's a note others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to now what to do with it. He's lost a lot of money and needs cash. . . .

"How much is the note for?"
"Well . . . Old Carr hasn't paid any interest on it for a year. It's about twelve thousand dollars right now. And I'll tell you more. . . ."

Old man Pegram better let go all holds on it just as soon as he can. Old Carr's in a bad way."

"I've got a five thousand dollar note of yours, Peters," he said. "I secured by this house and lot, oh?"
"Yes, sir. That's so. . . ."

Something hard in his throat seemed to choke little gray cashier.

"That note of yours is due next week. I want that note of Carr's that Pegram's got, see?"

"I . . . sir . . . I swear I don't see how I can fix it. It's Mr. Pegram's private business. I . . ."

More than once old Sam Peters regret that accused finger in wheat that was to remove him and his old wife from any danger of poverty. He made one final weight for escape.

"As matters stand, I don't see how it can help you to own a half share of the Hour-glass ranch," he said.

"Half of it! You're a plain fool, Peters. I'll own the whole place. Soda Springs ranch, too. I added 'Old man Carr owns the Hour-glass, don't he?'"

"He owns half of it," said Peters. "That's all. When old man Peter Vinton died, he left the Hour-glass half to Joe Carr, his old partner, and half to his sister's son, old Gerald Keene. When Carr wanted to borrow on his half of the place, we had to look up the will. That's how I know I saw the will. It says that if either Carr or Keene dies, his half goes to the survivor. . . ."

"For the love of God! . . . Dustin was breathless. . . . "Say that again."

"Peters said it again and Dustin, sure that he had not misheard, let go a smoke-screen of profanity. It was not the jovial profanity of good-nature but the vitriolic overflow of one who fears he has been hurt and who is not sure of the extent of the injury. In one brief kaleidoscopic moment the failure of his plans seemed sure. If Gerald Keene, the nephew of old Peter Vinton, owned half the Hour-glass then he, Sam Dustin, even if he succeeded in ousting Joe Carr, was only getting a new partner whom he did not even know.

He sized old Peters and whirled him about in the moonlight to face him. There was but one thing to be done. Too much depended on what old Kane knew! That miserable old desert-rat could send him and Spike to jail for a half a lifetime and Joe Carr could keep him out of a fortune. The solution came in a sudden storm of ill-considered impulse.

"If you want to keep a roof over your old wife's head," he snarled, "you buy up for every scrap of paper that old Carr has signed. I want to own the half-share of the Hour-glass. Get me?"

Peters gaped helplessly at him. "I mean what I say, you old fool. Where can I find this man Gerald Keene? The man who owns the other half of the Hour-glass?"

"I don't know, Mr. Dustin. I swear I don't. Nobody knows. Even Mr. Carr don't know. He's been tryin' to find him through Mr. Burley of the Drovers Bank in Calgary but he wrote us that he was handling Mr. Keene's business and that Mr. Keene was travelling somewhere and couldn't be reached just now."

Dustin granted disbelief but he could do nothing at present. He had plenty of money in the bank and Peters knew it. There was no question of the validity of the check that Dustin wrote at the hotel desk and passed to the gray-headed little cashier who took it shakily. He pouted it, refused a cigar and headed for the bank feeling like a condemned criminal who has received notice of an unexpected reprieve.

W. N. U. 701

"I'm sorry for old Carr," he muttered. "But I can't get it. I can't see Mame go to the Fourhouse and that's what'll happen if Dustin sues out that note. Oh, hell! What's the use kickin'! But I wish I could put a spoke in Dustin's wheel. . . ."

He saw Pegram at the bank who was only too glad to get rid of Carr's note for Dustin's check and he turned that over to Dustin who promptly headed back for the Broken Spur. He found Spike anxiously awaiting him and he was drawn into the office by a note from his partner.

"What luck, Sam?"

"The best. I found out that old Carr's that note of Carr's that Pegram's got, see?"

"I . . . sir . . . I swear I don't see how I can fix it. It's Mr. Pegram's private business. I . . ."

seen 'em doing up in the hills. I headed him off in time and I don't think Haynor caught on to what he was sayin'. . . . What you goin' to do? he asked sharply for Dustin, with a sharp little catch, was heading for the bunk-house.

Old Dad Kane, standing just inside the door, was suddenly snatched off his feet and was sent spinning against the wall. He turned like a flash and a rusty old six-gun, a cap and ball affair, was thrust under Dustin's nose.

"You keep your hands where they're used to bein'. . . . In other men's pockets," snarled the old prospector. "What you want? Hey?"

"To shut your fool head and to keep you from lettin' all the world in on what you found. You damned old fool! Don't you know that one word from Ed. Raynor'll send a bun-dred men up Red Water? Come into the house. I want to talk to you." Wisely angry, snarling include threats at every pore, Kane followed Dustin into the office. Once in the room Dustin turned on him:

"Look here, Dad. . . . His very tone was pleading for he had time to reflect. . . . It's all boy fault. I just couldn't stand seein' our one chance of a fortune go glimmerin' just because you talk too damned much. I don't know just what you said but I do know that after a long time in the hills most men's jaws relax. You hunter's give any one even a hint that you found pay-dirt in the hills. If you do, we're busted. You know well enough that one word of gold in Red Water will start a stampede up there. Where'll we be then?"

Great RADIO CONVENTION for UNWIRED HOMES!

- A marvelous new source of radio power—brings a new type of radio—with the quality of the finest electric set you have ever heard—and electric set convenience!

AIR-CELL RADIOS

- Are built to operate with the new EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Battery, an amazing electrical unit that re-energizes itself for at least 1000 hours—which, at 3 hours a day is almost a year's service in the average household.

NO MORE RECHARGING

- You have no more battery recharging. Every program comes through clear as a bell for the entire life of the Air-Cell Battery.

But don't confuse the new Air-Cell Radios with ordinary battery-powered sets. They are as unlike the old sets as anything can possibly be. They are new in perfect reception—new in easy operation—new in low upkeep cost.

Air-Cell Radios are now being built by all radio manufacturers—designed specially for the EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Batteries. Ask any dealer for a demonstration—your interest will be well repaid.

H. Birch, one time employee of the Crown Lumber Company here, has been appointed manager of the Crown yard at Gleichen.

A number of Carbon Masons accompanied R.P. Torrance, D.D.G.M., on his official visit to Hauser lodge on Monday night.

Three men employed at the Black Diamond mine narrowly escaped severe injury on Sunday afternoon when power company men were changing transformers. One of the men touched a bare wire and the shock knocked him unconscious, at the same time transferring the shock to the two men him. All three rested hours from the electricity, but not of a serious nature. The high tension line carries 13,000 volts.

MUSTARD SEED FROM ALBERTA IS SENT EAST

Hamilton, Ont.—Twenty tons of seed of the first mustard crop ever produced in Canada is en route from southern Alberta to Hamilton to be made into dry mustard by G.S. Dunn & Co.

The raising of mustard seed in Canada is an experiment that seems to be working well, G.S. Dunn stated.

The greater part of our mustard seed is imported from England and Holland.

Thomas Otto, the largest producer of mustard seed in southern Alberta, raised an average of 400 pounds an acre on 40 acres.

MACMILLAN APPEAL WILL BE HELD IN EDMONTON JAN. 11

The appeal of Vivian MacMillan and her father, A.D. MacMillan, of Edmonton against the judgment of Mr. Justice Fries in the damage action against entrepreneur J.E. Brownlee will be heard in Edmonton on January 11.

This order was given by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta at a sitting on Monday.

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact.

Yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

The watchless hawk and garden-quick and doves and plovers too. The peacock spreads his tail and swallows, pigs squeal and roosters sing. And even crows know enough to hiss before they sing.

But man, the greatest masterpiece that Nature could devise.

Will often stop and hesitate before he'll advertise.

Let Us Do Your Printing?

All business houses need more or less printed matter, all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how prone many are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember that the home printer is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to yourself and your local paper to back up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally.
